JOHN McGRATH.

Death from a Spider Bite.

A woman by the name of King, wife of James King, living near the banks of the river, at the foot of Gay street, was in a dying condition yesterday evening from the effects of a spider bite, received a week or ten days ago. As soon as bitten, the limb began to swell, but seemed to yield to treatment, and to all appearances the woman was getting better, until a few days since, when a relapse set in. She has been in a speechless condition ever since, gradually sinking, and doubtless beyond the reach of medical assistance, the physicians called in expressing their inability to fathom the cause for a relapse. We fear, from what we can learn, that ere this reaches the reader's eye she will be a corpse.

GOV. BROWN IN KNOXVILLE.

Visit to College Hill—Dress Parade of the Cadets.

His Excellency Gov. John C. Brown arrived in our city yesterday, on the noon train, his visit being at the request of the Trustees of the East Tennessee University. It was intended to have the battalion of cadets from the University meet him at the depot, and escort him to the hotel, but owing to the unpleasant weather the programme had to be changed in this respect, and a committee of the Trustees of the University met and escorted him to the residence of Col. C. M. McGhee, whose guest he is during his stay in the city.

In the afternoon the Governor expressed a wish to visit the College, and was escorted thither by quite a party of ladies and gentlemen, where they witnessed a drill parade of the cadets. The young gentlemen, wearing their military uniforms, were drilling at the time of his arrival, and in full uniform, headed by Lieut. Thornburgh, Professor of Military Science, presented an attractive appearance. The battalion, on the arrival of the Governor on the ground, was placed in order for his inspection, and escorted by the President, he examined minutely every company, after which he witnessed the cadets' proficiency in drill, which was sufficient to call forth a great many complimentary remarks. In fact the Governor stated that he had never seen a finer turn out of young men in his life, while the proficiency with which they handled their arms reflected credit upon themselves as well as on their teacher, Lieut. Thornburgh.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES.

Orations of the Seniors and Addresses by Distinguished Speakers.

The commencement exercises of the East Tennessee University yesterday morning at Staub's Opera House were very largely attended by our citizens. The Cadets, with the Faculty and Trustees marched into the Hall at about 9 A. M. On the stage were the President and the Faculty, Trustees and graduating class and Gov. John C. Brown, and Hon. Horace Maynard.

The following was the order of exercises:

MUSIC AND PRAYER.

Latin Salutatory Address—S. B. Crawford, Knox county.

Oration—"Effects of Knowledge on Moral Character"—W. E. S. Armstrong, Washington county.

Oration—"Our Future"—Frank C. Bearden, Knoxville.

MUSIC.

Oration—"Memories of the Past"—their Influence"—W. T. R. Helm, Knox county.

Oration—"Know Thyself"—Romeo P. Spence, Knoxville.

Oration—"Imagination"—S. B. Crawford, Knox county.

Oration—"Bismarck and the Jesuits," with the Valdeictory—Wm. B. Payne, Knoxville.

MUSIC.

Degrees conferred.

MUSIC.

Baccalaureate Address—By Hon. Horace Maynard.

Remarks—By His Excellency Gov. John C. Brown.

Benediction.

The orations of the Seniors were all creditable to them and to the University. The oration of Mr. Helm showed that he had made good use of his opportunities in acquainting himself with the principles of Agricultural Chemistry, and afforded a proof of the practical teaching of the University in that direction.

The valedictory oration of Mr. Payne showed close study of his subject, and a thorough appreciation of the present problem before the German Government. His valedictory remarks were in good taste, free from ostentation, and demonstrated that he was entitled to the position assigned him by his grades during his collegiate course.

We make these particular references not to disparage any of the other gentlemen for we consider they all did themselves great credit, and we would be glad, did our space permit, to give extended notices of their orations.

THE BACCALAUREATE ADDRESS

of Hon. Horace Maynard was extempore and in every way worthy of the distinguished character of the speaker. We can not even give an outline of his address, which was appropriate and of deep interest. He said that Lord Bacon spoke the truth when he said that knowledge was power. Other things being equal, he can do most who knows most. The proper study of mankind is man. An English poet enlarged upon the motto of one of the wise men of Greece referred to by Mr. Spence in his oration.

The study of man was but the study of history. The speaker enlarged upon the importance of history as a study, and hoped colleges would hereafter give it more prominence in their curriculum. He referred to the importance of studying it not only for its facts, but for the significance and application to be made of those facts.

REMARKS BY GOV. BROWN.

The Governor remarked that he had come more to make his excuses than an address. He wished, however, to say that he was glad he had come. He was highly gratified with what he had seen and heard. He wished first to compliment the Cadets for their excellent drill and marching. He had had occasion during his life to see a great many soldiers, but he had never seen a body of young men so well drilled or show such precision in marching. He felt confident, however, that in this land they would never have occasion to use their military knowledge. He thought our wars were at an end. He hoped they would never have need to show their proficiency as soldiers.

He complimented the young men on their orations, and spoke of them encouragingly of the future. He spoke of the dignity of labor, and of the duty of giving it that position in society it deserved. He said it had too long been the custom in the South to look down upon labor. That day was past. He concluded by giving the young graduates some good advice, and closed with the usual compliment to the ladies.

The cot attending the exercises of the week was due largely to the high character of the three gentlemen chosen to deliver the addresses, Messrs. Whitthorne, Maynard and Brown, and we trust those concerned will see the importance on future occasions of the same kind, of showing equal good judgment in their selections.

THE SOCIAL ENTERTAINMENTS.

At the close of the exercises of the morning, the Trustees, Faculty, strangers, Alumni, and some of the prominent citizens repaired to the fine mansion of Perez Dickinson, Esq., where at were entertained by the host, assisted by his niece, Mrs. Gen. Finnegan, in characteristic elegant style.

Late in the afternoon, Dr. and Mrs. Humes entertained the friends of the University at their residence on Church street. The entertainment was such as might have been expected at the hospitable mansion of the venerable President and his estimable lady.

A DAY IN THE WOODS.

Railroad Picnic at Love's Cave.

Yesterday morning there was a gathering from the city and suburbs and good numbers hurriedly prepared the national meal, which was partaken of without loss of time, in order to be on time for the first train leaving the depot for Love's Cave, the place selected for holding the annual picnic of the railroad employees, which is an event looked forward to with pleasurable anticipations by all who have attended those previously held, and, as was evinced by the occasion yesterday, this expectation was more than realized and but one opinion was expressed, that the picnic was the most enjoyable of the season.

Trains ran to the picnic grounds at intervals during the day, and the number who went by this mode of conveyance exceeded three hundred and fifty, besides those going in buggies and other vehicles. Messrs. Ricard and Kinzel had tables set, where a square meal could be obtained, and another where lighter refreshments and delicacies were dispensed, which were well patronized.

The management had erected a platform in the grove and provided two bands of music, led by "Ike Wilson," of Chattanooga, while the Floor Committee, Messrs. John Weatherford, Joseph Shepherd, Thomas McDonald and Blant, Nance, saw that the dancers were supplied with partners.

Among the dancers we noticed a beautiful little girl, about four years of age, daughter of Mr. Wm. Brewer, who maintained her position on the platform and kept step to the music in a manner eliciting surprise and admiration from those who saw her.

Messrs. John A. Calder, James B. Campbell, C. W. Flisk, John Seay and others were uniting in their efforts to make all his happiest efforts, in which they succeeded most admirably.

A velociped race between Matt. Franklin, the well known and popular engineer, and Drake Munsey, for a tin cup, distance eighty yards, down grade, was won by the former; time, 1:04, beating his opponent sixteen lengths. The cup will be suitably engraved with a horse shoe nail by Mr. McDonald with the name of the winner and presented on the evening of the 15th proximo.

In one of the lulls of dancing, Mr. J. C. Williams was called on to address the company, and signifying his willingness to do so, was introduced by Mr. Weatherford in a few words eminently appropriate to the occasion, whereupon Mr. Williams came forward and in his well known eloquent and graceful style delivered one of his happiest efforts, in which he paid a high tribute to the dignity and honor of labor, concluding with an eulogy on the heroic Guild and those who follow the perilous calling of the engineer.

His remarks were received with loud applause, and being requested to furnish a copy for publication, Mr. W. consented to do so, which we will publish in tomorrow's issue, the pressure on our columns being so great, preventing its appearance this morning.

The picnic of English citizens was held on the same grounds, about fifty persons of that nationality being present, who appeared to enjoy themselves equally as much as their cis-Atlantic neighbors.

The picnic grounds are situated five miles from Knoxville, on the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia Railroad, in an early direction, and are located on the farm of S. H. Love, Esq., who has been very kind in granting the use of the same for pleasure parties.

At half-past six o'clock, the train being in readiness the party got aboard and returned to the city, where they disembarked and sought their respective homes, having passed the day most pleasantly, nothing having occurred to mar in the slightest degree the festivities of the occasion.

MEXICO.

Lecture by Bishop Haven.

A fair audience was present yesterday evening at the First M. E. Church to hear Bishop Haven lecture on Mexico. Prayer was offered by Rev. J. Howard Smith, after which the Bishop delivered an exceedingly interesting lecture of one hour and a half, going away back three hundred and fifty years to the conquest of that country by Cortez. He even went behind that time and gave an interesting description of the Aztecs, whom Cortez conquered. He dwelt on Mexican history and showed how Providence had been and is still opening the way for the improvement and redemption of Mexico. He related how the Mexican war with the United States, a war which he with great many others had opposed, had been the means of bringing good to both nations.

He gave a graphic description of the manner in which the Roman Church held dominion over the Mexican people, and bound them with fetters they are now anxious to break. The American Missionaries of the different religions in combination are now in that country, getting ready to gather the rich harvest which Providence has prepared for them. Convents have been torn down and demolished before the march of improvement, and to-day the great heart of the Mexican nation is beating in unison with American and Protestant ideas.

We will not attempt anything like a report of the Bishop's interesting lecture. We regret that circumstances were such as to prevent many of our people from hearing him who would, have otherwise done so.

Circuit Court.

The Circuit Court met at the usual hour, Hon. E. T. Hall presiding. The following business was transacted:

In the case of Bank of East Tennessee for the use of J. G. M. Ramsey, surviving trustee, vs. Joseph A. Maynard, administrator of G. W. Churchwell, deceased, jury returned a verdict for defendant.

GENERAL DEWEY'S REMAINS AT DANBRIDGE.

Business Suspended and Grief Universal Prevailing.

The sad news of the sudden death of our friend and fellow-citizen Gen. Joel A. Dewey, was received in our town about 3 P. M. yesterday. Like a report of thunder from a cloudless sky the shock fell upon us. We could not realize the sad truth; an indescribable gloom fell upon us; business houses closed and the citizens were seen gathered in groups about the street discussing with bated breath the sad tidings. The ladies with their ever ready sympathy for the suffering in the hour of affliction, repaired to the house of mourning to comfort and console the heart broken widow.

The body was conveyed from the depot at New Market in the regular hack, and in consequence of the bad roads did not arrive until 6 o'clock P. M. The body was not accompanied from Knoxville by Judge J. P. Swann, Charles D. McGuffey, Esq., Col. J. Monroe Meek, Maj. James Mitchell and Wm. B. Moore, Esq. On the arrival of the corpse it was met by the entire male population, who in procession "sad and silent" followed to the late residence where the remains were deposited. The cause was opened giving the citizens an opportunity to take a look at the face of their departed friend. Then with tearful faces they silently withdrew leaving the grief-stricken wife alone with her dead.

DANBRIDGE, TENN., June 18, 1873.

A Shameful Act.

A year or so since a man by the name of John Manning and his wife, lived a most miserable life, using the intoxicating cup and all the wages of the husband were spent by them in drinking, while often their children were made to suffer. About this time Providence afflicted John, and he was laid prostrate by sickness, while his family suffered much. The matter came to the knowledge of one of our pious ministers of the gospel, who visited them, provided for their temporal wants and finally induced them both to take the pledge. This man has kept to the present day, while the woman, we regret to say has broken hers, and now when the husband takes his week's wages home in provisions, if he don't furnish her with money to satisfy her infernal thirst, she will take the provisions and barter them for the cursed drink. On occasions of this kind, her husband as well as her children, would have to leave home. Last night was one such occasion. Now, it is certainly a burning shame that parties acquainted with her condition and the circumstances above related, will, for the sake of a few cents, destroy the peace of that family. For humanity's sake we will assume that none of the barkeepers are acquainted with the facts, and will hope that in the future they will never again give her whisky in exchange for her money or provisions her children should eat.

Errata.

In our local notice of the Turn Fest, given in Tuesday morning's issue, we stated that the price of admission to the Grand Concert at the Opera House would be $1. Since then we have been informed that the admission will be only 50 cents, thus giving everybody an opportunity to attend, and we hope to see the Opera House crowded to its utmost capacity.

8100 Reward.

Now, it seems that everybody knows that I lost a valise on the Bristol train some weeks ago, and somebody has got it, and now, my good man, a camel can go through the eye of three needles easier than you can get into Heaven with that carpet-bag slung under your neck. Just keep all the money and send the papers to the Postmaster at Knoxville, who will give you the above reward; and besides this, will absolve you not only from that, but all other sins of your life.

Respectfully,
G. W. DOUGHTY.

A Cure for Cholera.

In view of the fact that other portions of our State are being scourged with that dreadful disease, cholera, it behooves every one to immediately provide themselves with the best known remedies, for, to be cured at all, cholera must be cured quickly. The first symptom of this disease is usually a painless diarrhoea, accompanied with a feeling of coldness in the bowels. Where the cholera is prevailing no other warning is necessary, but the person attacked should immediately lie down and keep quiet, have a large mustard poultice prepared and cover the entire abdomen. To stop the diarrhoea nothing has yet been discovered more efficient than Dr. Lytle's Elixir, taken in liberal doses, which should be taken as soon as possible. Should the case be stubborn and pain and cramp follow, take a large dose of Dr. Hart's Great Relief Laxative and have the limbs rubbed vigorously with the same. By following these simple directions, no one need fear cholera.
